AVOID QUACKS!

A victim of early indisposition, causing nervous debility, premature decay, etc., having tried in vain every advertised remedy, has discovered simple means of self-care, which he will send free to his fellow-sufferers. J. H. Reeves, No. 78 Nassau street, New York, Aug. 18.

THE BULLETIN.

Publication Office, Bulletin Building, Washington Avenue.

JEROME NEVER SMILED AGAIN.

(From the "Manhattan Journal." The man who always smiled, his wife came down, And then went away again, But was to him, his wife had brought His mother, now long dead. His mother had a secret, But this last secret is settled in me, He never smiled again.)

There were eight eyes around him, The children laughed at him, For he was the only one who was sent to him, His mother died young. Before him was a former chum, In pleasure's path he ran, But he was a bad boy, and honest, He never smiled again.

He used to bring books round, And when he had a book, He thought it was a treat, That effort was a test. A good name is a badge of honor, The old girl's badge is to him, but, He never smiled again.

A TEMPERANCE SPEECH.

A correspondent sends us the following good speech, which, as she assures us, is nearly a verbal report of one that she heard at a temperance meeting: "I have been thinking since I came into the meeting to-night about the Lord. I am not a member of any church, but I abstain from drink. I know there isn't a man in this society lost more by stopping drink than I have. Wait a little till I tell you what I mean. There was a nice job of work to be done in the shop to-day, and the boss called for me. 'Give it to Tom,' says he. 'He's the best hand in the shop.' Well, I told my wife at supper time, and says she, 'Why, Laurie, he used to call you the worst. You've lost your bad name, haven't you? That's a fact, wife,' says I. 'And it ain't all I've lost in the last sixteen months, either. I had poverty and wretchedness, and I've lost them. I had an old ragged coat, and a shiekin' bad hat, and some water proof boots that let the water out at the toes as fast as they took it in at the heels. I've lost them. I had a red face, and a trembling hand, and a pair of shudy legs, that gave me an awkward tumble now and then. I had a habit of cursing and swearing, and I've got rid of that. I had an aching head sometimes, and a heavy heart, and worse than all the rest, a guilty conscience. Thank God! I've lost them all! Then I told my wife what she had lost. 'You had an old ragged gown, Mary,' says I, 'and you had trouble, and sorrow, and a poor-wretched home, and plenty of heart aches, for you had a miserable drunkard for a husband, Mary! Mary! thank the Lord for all you and I have lost since I have signed the Good Samaritan pledge!' — E.
